Övergripande uppdragsbeskrivning

We are now looking for a Senior Data scientist. □

In this position, you will have a great impact in deciding on what creates user value and make the most of the opportunities that lie before us in our journey to become the world's leading nutrition app. In this position, you will structure data, capture insights, deliver creative and pedagogical reports, act as a key stakeholder in our exciting projects, and with your knowledge, suggest new products and services. You will have the possibility to influence the way we work with all sides of our business; within performance marketing, business sales, core app development, and more. □

Some of the things you will spend time working on are maintaining and perfecting our ETL using Airflow, developing our marketing automation analysis and reporting, improving the quality of our database and database content, and creating interactive Looker reports, developed in LookML. □

- Experience in setting up efficient ETL systems, preferably in Airflow □
- Experience in mobile app analytics □
- Experience in marketing automation, attribution, data engineering of campaign optimization, Adjust, Funnel, ROI, LTV □
- Data engineering skills, fluency in moving and manipulating data within and between cloud systems □
- Worked with statistics, data mining, machine learning, and predictive modelling; Hypothesis Testing through Experimentation, A/B testing □

- You have experience with our tech stack: BQ, SQL, Looker, LookML, Python, Jupyter notebooks, Airflow ETL, Adjust
- Master's degree or Ph.D. in an analytical field such as Science, Data Science, Engineering, Mathematics, or Statistics
